TWO HARD RAIN STORMS HIT COSHOCTON SUNDAY LEAVING DAMAGE BEHIND

Streets Are Flooded, Trees Blown Down, Houses Washed From Foundations and Much Property Damage Is Done In The Worst Storm of the Year—Ride Through Streets In Boats.

Water Backs Up On Seventh Street From Poplar To Walnut Making Huge Lake—Men and Boys Shoot Rats Driven To Street By Water — Rain Is a General One.

Fruit and shade trees broken, grape arbors leveled, wires down and telephones out of commission; streets turned into literally raging torrents, others into lakes where small boys sported on rafts and boats—all this came Sunday as the result of the hardest rain storm of the year.

The thunder showers that started early Saturday morning continued intermittently early Sunday morning before dawn. It was about 7 o'clock however that there broke almost a cloudburst with rain falling in such heavy sheets that one could hardly see across the street. The wind blew a hurricane and heavily-laden grape arbors and trees crashed before it.

The vortex of the wind storm seemed to be in the south part of town. South Lawn, South Seventh, Cambridge-rd and vicinity got the worst of it. A fine large mapel in front of Jos. Keagy's residence, Poplar and South Lawn, was split as though by a thunderbolt. Five large fruit trees in the yards of Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Kuntz and others, were broken off short. A fine old apple tree that for years has graced the lawn of the old Hesket place on Cambridge, was felled as though by a giant's twist. At the Country club, the court house park and all over town, limbs and branches of trees and branches of tres were broken off.

Shortly after noon came another deluge of rain and wind, adding to the destruction. Water fell faster than the sewers could carry it off, and for two blocks, South Seventh, almost from Main, across Orange and to Pepular was under water, which backed up into the yards. Every cellar was full to the ceiling and in several places the water is said to have weakened the foundation walls of the houses.

The most remarkable phenomenon was up on the hill, at the W. & L. E. Ry. crossing at Cambridge. The water came down upper Walnut, over through the Coshocton Lumber Co's yards and down the railroad tracks, a veritable torrent. Boxes, branches, small logs, rode the tide as though it were 40 feet deep. The current swirled at Cambridge and ran up that street to the foot of the grade. When the waters receded they left six inches of slushy soil on the pavement, both Cambridge and Walnut.

While the water was at its height, Miles, the young son of W. N. Day went through the flood, driving the family car. The family were at the Country club and Miles went to their rescue valiantly. The water came up to the hubs of the wheels, and washed the lower half of the engine, and the heavy car skidded in the slippery mud and water, but Miles pushed on more power and shoved the car safely through. Almost at the side of the car, paddled a young Berlean boy in a canoe, over Cambridge and up and down the railroad. The tracks were 18 inches under water.

The Citizens Telephone Co. had about 100 patrons cut off by broken wires. The Bell was luckier. The Light Co. had a wire down, on South Lawn, broken by a falling tree. In many parts of town fences and small out buildings were blown over.

A house on Vine street between S. Seventh and South Lawn which Milton McCormick is erecting was almost ruined by the noon storm and will probably have to be torn down and rebuilt. It was just under roof and had some of the weatherboards on. The wind struck it with terrific force and blew it out of plum. The roof of the house is leaning abotu a foot out of plumb from the foundation.

Barn Blown.

A barn on West Elm street belonging to Thomas Carton was blown from its foundation and turned about half way around from its regular position. It now stands in the alley.

Many large trees were blown over as if they were corn stalks. A large elm tree about four feet in diameter standing on the Dunfee property at the corner of Vine and Fifth streets, was broken off by the wind and now reposes on the top of the house. Practically all of the slate was broken from the roof and the water was allowed to run into the house.

A vacant house, standing just south of the Glove factory on Fifth street, had several of its chimneys blown off and the water poured into the dwelling like a river.

Trees in this setcion, regardless of their size, were torn out by the roots and were blown against houses and across the streets. The water filled the streets, which soon resembled lakes.

House Undermined

The foundation under the entire east side of George Markley's residence on Orange street was washed out by the deluge of rain that swept through his yard. Several neighbors worked for hours "jacking" the house up so that it wouldn't fall down into the cellar.

A house on Elm street back of Butts' South Lawn avenue grocery had its foundation partially washed away by the heavy rain, and only quick work on the part of neighbors kept the building from being entirely inundated.

Kill Rats

The storm had an amusing side as well as its destructive angle. The alley between Orange and Walnut streets was a veritable river of water just after the storm. The water washed under several barns in the neighborhood and washed many rats out from their hiding places into the alley. The rodents attempted to climb upon floating boards in an effort to save themselves from drowning. Boys standing nearby amused themselves by throwing stones and boards at the little animals and one man brought out a rifle and picked the rats off of the boards. When the slaughter had finished, it was found that forty rats had been killed.

Chickens Drown.

George Stewart lost a dozen of his fine breed Silver Wyandotte young chicks, that were drowned in the sudden downpour Sunday. He had taken all usual precautions but the storm exceeded expectations.

Alfred Peck came near losing a fine batch of young chicks also and was forced to protect one old hen who had squatted over her brood in the garden, by an umbrella. The water backed up and surrounded them and he finally had to rescue them in a basket.

Out on John-st. below Kenilworth ave. the rain made a veritable lake and people went to and from their homes in boats. The home of the Newett family was slightly damaged by the water pouring into the cellar and the home of Chas. Miller was similarly damaged. At the latter home the cellar was filled nearly to the floor with water.

During the rain of Sunday afternoon several Main street stores were flooded with water which ran into the rooms from the front and back in torrents. The interior of O'Donnell's smoke house resembled a lake. Water in a great stream ran into the back part of the room occupied by Wagner's confectionery store and soaked a great quantity of goods.

The chicken yard of Emmet Barcroft on Cambridge road received a torrent of water when the big rain came down upon it. Many young chickens were rescued from the lake of water by Mr. Barcroft just as the water was about to pass over their heads and drown them.

The Odd Fellows and Rebekahs memorial services which were to have been held Sunday afternoon at the fair grounds, were postponed on account of the rain. The services will be held next Sunday afternoon at the same time they were to have been held Sunday.

Reports from Oak Grove are that the lowlands in that vicinity were badly washed by the cloudburst and many fields of corn are ruined. At Morgan Run they had similar experience.

Barn Burned

A report this afternoon is that the storm was worse near West Carlisle than any other place. Many fences were washed out by the cloud burst and a sheep barn on George Gardner's farm was struck by lightning and destroyed as well as being blown over.

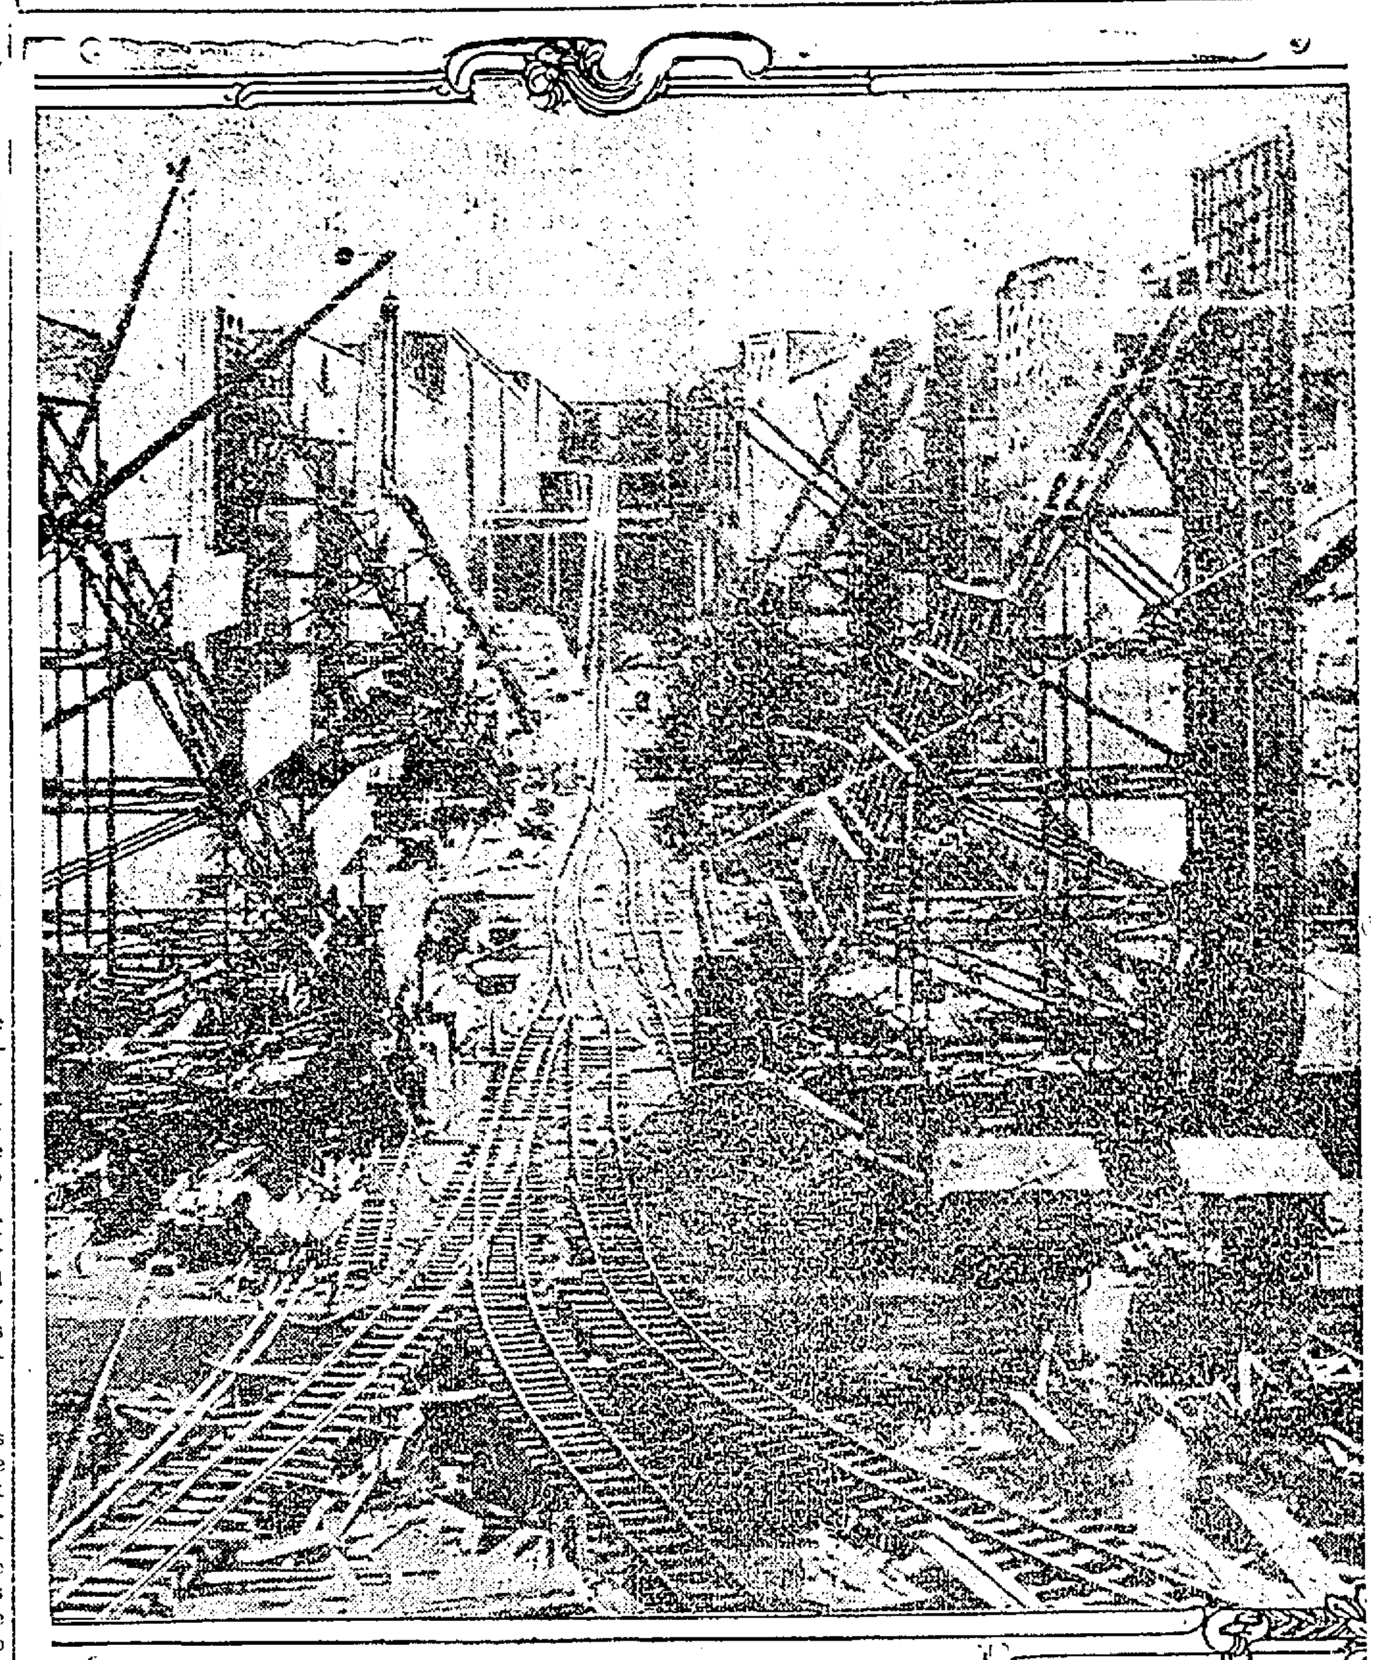

At West Bedford the church was almost washed away. A deluge of water rushed down hill and flooded the building, doing a great deal of damage.

John Erman of Wills Creek, was a heavy sufferer. In his fine apple orchard every tree but two was blown down. A great deal of timber throughout the valley was razed by the wind.

At Franklin the tracks to the Davis and Barnes mines were washed out by the cloud burst.

FIVE-SIXTHS OF EXCAVATION OF PANAMA CANAL NOW COMPLETED

Washington, June 17.—Less than one sixth of the entire amount of excavation for the Panama Canal remains to be completed; at the present rate of work, in less ten months. All excavating will be done and nothing will remain to finish except the locks and the general overhead work. Colonel expects to send the first vessel from the Atlantic to the Pacific through the canal in either August or September, 1913. This feat will not mean that the new waterway will be ready for the traffic of the world, but will be made as a test for the locks and operating forces. There will yet remain much work to be completed, and the formal opening of the canal for ships of commerce will be celebrated on Jan. 1, 1915.

FIRE SWEEPS THROUGH SALOON AND A BARBER SHOP SUNDAY MORNING

Blaze Starts In Cellar Under Tom Robson's Barber Shop, Follows Floor and Breaks Out In Lorenz Bros'. Cafe, Next Door, Gutting Interior of Saloon And Damaging Barber Shop.

Exact Origin of the Blaze Is Not Known—Theory That Gas Water Heater Started Flames, Not a Strong One — Damage Will Reach Over $2,500 With Little Insurance.

Fire, starting in the basement of the Lorenz building on Main-st. at 5:30 Sunday morning, did damage to the building and the fixtures of Lorenz Bros. cafe and Robson's barber shop to the extent of $2500.

The exact origin of the blaze cannot definitely be determined, although it is believed by some that it started from an instantaneous gas heater in the cellar which is used to heat water for the barber shop.

The entire bar fixtures of the cafe were ruined and are a total loss. Much liquor was also damaged by the smoke and heat.

Very little damage was done to the barber shop. One plate glass mirror and clothing of the barbers were destroyed, and the barber chairs were slightly damaged by the water which was thrown into the room.

The fire was communicated to the rafters under the tile floor in the barber shop and burned up the wall of the room over a space about two feet wide. It is believed that the suction from the pipes that draws the beer into the cooler in the cafe drew the blaze over into the room occupied by Lorenz Bros. In this room a large hole was burned in the floor behind the bar. From this hole the flames destroyed a section of the bar, cracked the plate glass back of the bar and burned the wood around it. The entire fixtures of the cafe will have to be replaced by new ones.

Lorenz Bros. carried insurance to the amount of $600, while Tom Robson had insurance on nothing but his plate glass mirrors. His insurance ran out on May 16 and he neglected to renew it.

The fire company worked hard to check the flames, but were badly handicapped because they could not get into the cellar for almost an hour after they arrived on account of the dense smoke. After they once got a stream on the fire it did not take them long to get it under control.

Wheeling Tracks are Washed Out

The heavy storm Sunday afternoon did considerable damage to the road bed of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad between Morgan Run and Fresno. In eight or ten places the tracks were undermined with water and all trains were delayed. The south bound evening train, due at the local station at 8:15 did not arrive here until 10:30. The northbound afternoon left the local station on scheduled time at 2:43, but encountered the washouts along the line and was held up at Fresno all of the afternoon and the greater part of last night. It did not leave Fresno for Cleveland until 10 o'clock Sunday night.

The heavy rain swept down over the tracks for a distance of miles north of here and washed out many weak places. Luckily none of the washouts were large ones, and they were easily repaired by the work train which brought dirt and gravel to the scene of the trouble.

BOTH FIGHTING FOR MAJORITY IN CONVENTION

Chicago, June 17.—With not more than ten votes hanging between the rival houses of William Howard Taft and Theodore Roosevelt, both camps today fought fast and furiously with the one object of making secure the majority on the first roll call of the convention. On the one hand the Taft leaders sought to hold what they had; on the other the Roosevelt folk strenuously endeavored to subtract strength from the Taft list and add it to their own.

It is the double force of addition and subtraction that brings the margin of difference down to ten votes. Obviously, what one gains the other loses. From the Roosevelt headquarters, at the opening of the day's work came the confident assurance that the opposing line would be broken. From the Taft headquarters came equally positive information that the Taftites would go into the convention with twenty majority.

As a matter of absolute fact, the nomination hung by an eyelash at the opening of the day's toil and no one could tell what the actual result would be.

As the real situation stood at the beginning of a new day's fight, eleven delegates had been switched from Taft to Roosevelt and two had announced that they preferred to drop Taft and take a third candidate, naming impartially [illegible] Root, Hughes, Robert T. Lincoln and Senator Cummins. This defection was said by the Taft people to leave them twenty majority. [illegible] T. Herbert, one of the New York bunkers who control the national [illegible] said:

"Mr. Taft will have [illegible] majority after all of the [illegible] defection, have been obtained. He will control the convention. [illegible] Mr. Roosevelt.

Senator Borah, for Colonel Roosevelt, said:

"You showed me an estimate of 586 votes from the Taft people when you saw me last. Now you come with 566. I told you that I then conceded 555 votes to them as all they had, and they haven't got that now. We have them cut now to less than enough votes to control the convention."

There were two spectacular sessions of the Roosevelt element on today's calendar. The first this afternoon when the colonel will come into the lobby of the congress hotel and hold a reception for the pushing, surging multitude that has whirled about the lobby for two days. The second is to be the big mass meeting at the Auditorium tonight. At 7 o'clock the doors will be opened to the public. At 8 o'clock Alexander H. Revell will introduce Col. Roosevelt for a characteristic speech.

But the real work of the day is of the hand to hand order. The furore method of stampeding the convention has been abandoned as without effect of the actual votes. It has been decided that the real goods can only be brought home by taking the opposing delegates man for man and making a personal effort to change them. That work is going on in every possible corner of the fight zone.

At the Roosevelt headquarters final arrangements for the meeting to be held tonight at the Auditorium where the former president will address delegates and enthusiasts were discussed. It has been definitely decided that except for a short speech of introduction the rough rider will have the program to himself.

MINERS AT LAST SIGN NEW SCALE

Agreement Reached Saturday Vanishes Possibility Of a Strike

Late Saturday night the report of the scale committee of miners submitted to the county delegation was submitted, accepting the scale. The scale is effective until April 1, 1914.

The scale was signed Monday at a meeting held at city hall, and all possibilities of a strike which threatened for a time are vanished.

The attempt to effect a settlement of the scale has been a long and stormy one and many of the miner leaders themselves looked for an open split resulting in a strike. A few days ago the scale committee after having been in session for days gave up the attempt as hopeless and left it with the miners' delegation.

She was one of the most widely known young women in the Blissfield neighborhood and was held in the highest esteem of everyone. She was a woman possessed of a sweet, motherly nature and won friends in everyone whom she met.

She leaves the husband and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Myers, and three brothers, Wilbur, Milo and L. E. Myers all of whom live on the home farm near Blissfield.

CANAL IS WASHED OUT AT CANAL LEWISVILLE

The cloudburst Sunday broke the Beaver Run culvert under the canal above Canal Lewisville, with the result that the state is put to a big loss.

Fully 200 feet of the fill, culvert and roadway is washed out, to a depth of 20 feet. The waters of the canal are rushing through the opening and the canal bed south of the break is emptied.

Supt. Geidel has visited the scene but is having a hard time to get into communication with Columbus because of the broken phone wires. He has a force of men starting to work on it at once. It will take some time to repair the damage.

An odd feature is the fun the lads of the village of Canal Lewisville are having. The bottom of the canal is covered with fish, many of them fine specimens of green and black bass, lying in the mud bottom gasping for breath. The lads are filling their baskets and every family in the village is said to have had fish for dinner today.

Another smaller break was experienced in the bank up the Walhonding canal. They will be repaired by tonight.

The Beaver break was experienced once before when there was a cloudburst in 1884.

CURTIS SEES THE CYCLONE AT AT ZANESVILLE

Raymie Curtis, of this city, was in Zanesville Sunday morning when the big storm struck that city. He was sleeping in the Clarendon hotel when the storm broke over the city. He said the noise was terrific and the thunder and lightning was the worst that he had ever experienced. He was early on the scene of the destruction of the St. Thomas church and said that he had never seen such destruction as was wrought in the heart of the city.

SENIORS SAFE FROM TORNADO

"Class safe at Marietta. Escaped destructive tornado."

That was the brief message received at noon Monday from Supt. C. E. Bryant by The Daily Age.

The Age at once called Marietta on long distance telephone, fearing that the havoc wrought there might have endangered the lives of the Coshocton high school party. Reassuring word was received. The storm was intense, uprooting trees, lifting roofs and lashing the waters of the Ohio river to a frenzy. It was like a miniature storm at sea, but no damage was done to shipping and the Lorena docked there Monday morning snug and safe, and resumed her journey up the Muskingum Monday noon with all on board wel land happy. They will arrive at Zanesville, if all goes well, tonight, and home either on No. 20 or early in the morning.

They had an exciting experience during the storm but no damage was done.

PASTOR RUSSELL'S SUNDAY SERMON

Gnashing of Teeth; Sorrow and Tears.

Philadelphia, June 16—Pastor Russell had his usual crowded house today. He delivered two addresses. We report one of them from the text, "The children of the Kingdom shall be cast out into outer darkness; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth." (Matthew viii, 11, 12). The speaker declared that in common with the majority of ministers he had misinterpreted this and similar Scriptures to refer to all the unsaintly of mankind and to imply that they are writhing in torture in a hell whose location is unknown and which he now sees to be a human tradition without authority of the Word of God.

The pastor analyzed his text and showed that it was addressed to the Jews, that they for sixteen centuries had been God's favored nation, in harmony with His promise to Abraham. They had much advantage every way over all the other nations—not only in the fact that the promises were given to them and the assistful influences of the law, but additionally to them were sent the Prophets with their encouraging messages.

Notwithstanding all these favors but comparatively few of that nation were in the heart condition to be accepted of God, to be Messiah's joint-heirs in His Kingdom. As the natural seed of Abraham they were the children or heirs of the Kingdom, and to them Jesus presented Himself. All of His miracles and teachings went to them, yet only a few were in such condition of heart that they could receive this message.

In the context Jesus referred to the fact that the Gentile centurion who had more faith than any Jew. Commenting upon this the Great Teacher declared that God would take from the Jews the special privileges, except such Jews as were "Israelites indeed," and that He would complete the number of His elect Church by a selection of saintly characters from amongst the Gentiles.

The Election Hath Obtained It.

St. Paul declares, "Israel hath not obtained that which he seeketh for; but the election hath obtained it and the rest of the nation were blinded." (Romans xi, 7.) The elect of Israel were gathered into the New Dispensation at Pentecost and subsequently while the Jewish people as a whole became more and more blinded and darkened in understanding until their nation expired in a time of anarchy A. D 70. Since then the Jews have been in trouble, in sorrow.

It was of this very condition of things that Jesus referred. He used the highly figurative language common in the ast. What St. Paul styles "blindness upon Israel" Jesus described as going into outer darkness losing the light of the prophecies and the hopes of the Abrahamic promise and thus getting into the same blind and dark condition in which Gentiles in general were. The experiences of the Jews during the past eighteen centuries Jesus described as "weeping and gnashing of teeth." His words simply signify sorrow, disappointment and chargin.

Truly the Jews have had all of these experiences. We are glad if we see in God's Word a glorious prospect for His ancient and Covenant people. St. Paul calls this promise to our attention in Romans xi, 25-32. He tells us that God's Covenant with Israel cannot be broken, but will be established, and that natural Israel shall yet receive mercy. Divine favor, at the hands and through the agency of the church—spiritual Israel, part of whom have been selected from the Jews and some from every nation under heaven—all saintly.

"Sit Down With Abraham."

The Great Teacher declares that while the natural heirs of the Messianic favor, as they have been cast out for the past eighteen centuries—in the meantime Gentiles from the east and west, north and south would be found of similar character to the Centurion whose servant was healed, and these would sit down with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the Kingdom.

For eighteen hundred years these elect ones out of all the nations have been coming into relationship with God along the lines of the Abrahamic promise. They are sitting down with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the sense that they enter into rest. As St. Paul declared, "We who believe do enter into rest." This is the same rest or sitting at east that Abraham, Isaac and Jacob enjoyed. They had God's promise that eventually He would raise up a spiritual Seed of Abraham through whom all the families of the earth would be blessed. Abraham rested upon that promise; so did Isaac; so did Jacob. And so we rest in this Divine assurance that a blessing will come to the children of Adam in God's due time; more than this, thus seated, we are resting in the Divine promise. We have received a special call to forsake all and become the followers of Jesus. To us has come the wonderful assurance that, if we sacrifice our little all of the present life, we shall become joint heirs with Messiah in His Kingdom and members of the Bride.

We have the assurance that although faithfulness to Him under the present conditions will mean sufering and loss of an earthly kind, nevertheless our rest will be a compensation, and the glory will follow—"for if we suffer with Him we shall also reign with Him;" "If we be dead with Him," we shall share in His glory, honor and immortality.

Let us not be Discouraged.

Let us not too seriously blame ourselves in respect to the foolish interpretations given to these Scriptures in the past. To see them more clearly now means two things

(1) A test of our humility in being willing to confess our faults

(2) A test of our loyalty in being willing to tell the Message of God's Justice and Love, even though it shall mean a confession of our own past ignorance respecting these things

Many are surprised that God has allowed His character to be so dreadfully slandered and His Plan so woefully misinterpreted. We may be sure, however, that even in the darkest times of the past God's saintly people were provided with a sufficiency of grace and light for their day. We may be assured also that the greater light granted to us today means that we have greater need.

Who shall say that God has been unwise in permitting us to so entangle ourselves in human tradition as to be unable to appreciate the glorious promises of His Word in their true light? Who shall say that eventually the contrast between some of our demonical theories and the Truth may not make the latter shine more brilliantly, and the more thoroughly glorify the true, Divine Plan which will then shine forth

Cyclone Strikes Church at Zanesville; Many Injured

Panic Ensues and Two Men Killed By Falling Tower—Man Also Killed at Columbus — Million Dollars Damage Done Over State.

Zanesville, June 17. A cyclone struck Zanesville at 7 o'clock Sunday morning and two men were killed and 31 persons injured, one perhaps fatally. The majority of those hurt were worshipping at St. Thomas Catholic church, when the steeple was blown over and crashed through the roof.

Thomas Skinlon, aged 50, of this city, had his head crushed by a falling stone and died two minutes later. Father Roach, pastor of the church, administering the last sacraments while the remainder of the congregation of 500 were fleeing for the doors.

John F. Dinan, aged 36, of Keen street, whose body was badly crushed and whose right arm was crushed off, died two hours later.

Just 23 other persons were struck by falling debris and all were painfully hurt.

Father Roach directed the congregation to go out the rear of the church, instead of the front, to escape the falling walls.

The storm started, cut a swatch through town a block wide and ended about 20 miles east of town, leveling barns and one or two houses, but none was hurt in the country districts.

Thomas Rock, a St Thomas worshiper, had both legs crushed; one of them was amputated and he may die before evening.

C. E. ANDERSON GUARANTEES RHEUMA FOR RHEUMATISM

What chance does any sufferer take when RHEUMA is guaranteed to banish rheumatism, lumbago, gout and kidney ailments, or money back?

Why not investigate this offer; talk to C. E. Anderson about it. RHEUMA surely does drive rheumatic poison from the system, brings swollen joints back to normal and relieves agony in two days.

People so crippled with rheumatism that they could not walk have been absolutely freed from the iron grasp of the demon, rheumatism, with less than half a dozen, 50-cent bottles. A few hours after the first dose, RHEUMA begins to dissolve the uric acid and drive it from the body through the natural channels.

Everybody can afford RHEUMA—the price is only 50 cents a bottle, and the dose is small.

WHAT WE WASTE

No doubt in the world but what we all of us waste money. And when the government statistician shows us how much we have wasted on little things, it shocks us. For instance it would be hard to make the average high school girl believe that last year this nation spent 25 millions of dollars for chewing gum? And our total abstainer brother will rightfully be inexpressibly grieved to learn that the "drink bill" of American people runs regularly about two billions of dollars! It will appear just as wasteful to the bibulous fraternity however to realize that 320 millions were spent last year for "soft drinks!" And to the man up a tree it seems downright sinful that we are a people who for gum, beer and soda water and kindred useless little personal luxuries pay out enough to drive the wolf of want away from the nation's door and to bring health and sunshine into lives darkened by lack of actual necessities!

TIMES CHANGE

There might the more sympathy for the remains of Roosevelt, scraped off the steam roller, were not memory green with the way Teddy handled the lever four years ago and ran it over Foraker, Fairbanks, Dolliver and the other "allies."

WORTH SAVING

With a more mature understanding and a deeper appreciation perhaps, the British nation has already taken steps to secure the first Wright aeroplane for the British museum. That wonderful institution owns some revolutionizing mechanical relics, such as George Stephenson's locomotive the "Rocket." A hundred years hence the first Wright aeroplane will be just as interesting as the first locomotive, the first steamboat, the first sewing machine, is to us today. But why let it go to England? America is its home even though the Wrights did have to go to Europe to be appreciated. Why does not the National Museum at Washington buy the original Wright now when it may be bought at a reasonable figure? This is worth thinking about for the sake of posterity.

FROM PITTSBURG

"The Roosevelt Party", has been organized in Pittsburg, according to news dispatches. That is a sensible move. If there be people who think any man is indespensible to the guilding of this ship of state, they ought to form themselves into a party rather than try to insist on a lot of other people with whom they have formerly been associated swallow their nostrum. Such a move would make the steam roller unnecessary. And coming out of Pittsburg adds weight; for that is the town that produced Flinn, Schwab, Thaw and a lot of other notables.

"Nothing shrinks like a ham" says Dr. Wiley. Wrong. We bought some cold-boiled the other day and a single slice cost four cents; our dollar shrunk faster than the ham.

Coshocton's summer school of music which is to be conducted by Miss Mary Gage Mortley and Miss Olga Schauwecker, two of our city's most accomplished and best known musical directors, will open Wednesday at the fair grounds with a recital by the faculty This school, though an innovation, will fill a long felt need for those wishing to take up a systematic study of music. Its aims are to furnish first class instruction to those living away from musical centers who are unable to study during the winter months, and to enable winter pupils to continue their studies during the warm weather under most favorable conditions It also brings the pupil into contact with other students, thus giving an incentive for work which is not felt under private instruction.

No more suitable place for the summer school could be found than the cool shady grove of the fair grounds, quiet and secluded, yet within easy distance of the center of town, it is an ideal spot for a summer school.

There will be faculty and students recitals at intervals during the session, to which the public will be invited. The students recitals being conducted in a professional manner, in order that they may learn how to appear in public

ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL VETOED BY THE PRESIDENT

In his message, sent to congress with his veto, the president criticised the appended legislation in the bill reorganizing the army and causing changes which he held should be done by independent legislation and not included in the bill appropriating for the army

The president declares it repeatedly has been pointed out by his predecessors that the practice of attaching legislative riders to appropriation bills is dangerous.

The veto leaves the army without an appropriation for its maintenance for the next fiscal year unless congress hurries through a simple appropriation measure without the legislative features. It may be Congress from here retired from his office as chief of staff on March 1, 1911, and present time to organization of the army is provided in the bill

THE MERCY SIGN

A NEW DETECTIVE STORY ABOUT AVERAGE JONES, THE SUCCESSOR OF SHERLOCK HOLMES

By Samuel Hopkins Adams. Copyright 1911 by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

The other groaned. "It may already be too late. What newspapers have you there?"

"All of 'em. Want me to look?"

Mr. McIntyre braced himself.

"Is that all?"

"Practicaly."

And the other reports?"

over. "About the same. Hold on: Here's a little something extra in the Uniersal.'

" 'Found on the flour . . . . bell-boy who discovered the tragedy collapses . . . condition serious. Supposedly shoch-' "

"What's that?" interrupted young Mr. McIntyre, half rising. "Shot?" Your're nervous, Tommy. I didn't say 'shot.' I said 'shoch.' "

"Oh, of course. Shoch-the bell-boy, it means."

"See here; first thing you know you'll be getting me interested. Hadn't you better open up or shut up?"

Mr. McIntyre took a long breath and a resolution simultaneously.

"At any rate I can trust you," he said. "Telfik Bey is not a merchant. He is a secret, confidential agent of the Turkish government. He came over to New York from Washington in spite of warnings that he would be killed."

"You're certain he was killed?"

"I only wish I could believe anything else."

"Shot?"

"The corner and a physician whom I sent can find no trace of a wound."

"What do they say?"

"Apoplexy."

"The refuge of the mystified medico. It doesn't satisfy you?"

"It won't satisfy the State Department."

"And possibly not the newspapers, eventually."

"Come up with me and look the place over, Average. Let me send for the manager."

That functionary came, a vision of perturbation in a pale-gray cat. Upn Upon assurance that Average Jones was "safe" he led the way to the rooms so hastily vacated by the spirit of the Turkish guest.

"We've succeeded in keeping two recent suicides and a blackmail scheme in this hotel out of the newspapers," observed the manager morosely. "But this would be the worst of all. If I could have known, when the Turkish Embassy reserved the apartment—"

"The Turkish Embassy never reserved any apartments for Telfik Bey," put in the Fifth Assistant Secretary of State.

"Surely you are mistaken, sir," replied the hotel man. "I saw their emissary myself. He specified for the rooms on the south side, either the third or fourth floor. Wouldn't have anything else."

"You gave him definite reservation?" asked Jones.

"Yes; 335 and 336."

"Has the man been here since?"

"Not to my knowledge."

"A Turk, you think?"

"I suppose so. Foreign, anyway."

"Anything about him strike you particularly?"

"Well, he was tall and thin and looked sickly. He talked very soft, too, like a sick man."

The characterization of the Pearlington station agent recurred to the interrogator's mind. "Had he—er—white hair?" he half yawned.

"No," replied the manager, and in the same breath, the budding diplomat demanded:

"What are you up to, Average? Why should he?"

Average Jones turned to him. "To what other hotels would the Turkish Embassy be likely to send its men?"

"Go up there and find out whether a room has been reserved for Telfik Bey, and if so—"

"They wouldn't reserve at two hotels, would they?"

"—by whom," concluded Average Jones, shaking his head at the interruption. Find out who occupied or reserved the apartments on either side."

Mr. Thomas Colvin McIntyre lifted a wrinkling eyebrow. "Really, Jones," he observed, "you seem to be employing me rather in the capacity of a messenger boy."

"If you think a messenger boy could do it as well, ring for one," drawled Average Jones, in his mildest voice. "Meantime, I'll be in the Turk's room here."

Numbers 335 and 336, which the manager opened, after the prompt if somewhat sulky departure of Mr. McIntyre, proved to consist of a small sitting-room, a bedroom and a bath, each with a large window giving on the cross-street, well back from Fifth Avenue.

"Here's where he was found." The manager indicated a spot near the wall of the sittting-room and opposite the window. "He had just pushed the button when he fell."

"How do you know that?"

"Bronson, the bell-boy on that call, answered. He knocked several times and got no answer. Then he opened the door and saw Mr. Telfik down, all in a heap."

"Where is Bronson?"

"At the hospital, unconscious."

"What from?"

"Shock, the doctors say."

"What—er—about the—er—shot?"

The manager looked startled. "Well Bronson says that just as he opened the door he saw a bullet cross the room and strike the wall above the body."

"You can't be a bullet in flight."

"He saw this one," insisted the manager. "As soon as it struck it exploded. Three other people heard it."

"What did Bronson do?"

"Lost his head and run out. He hadn't got half-way to the elevator when he fell, in a sort of fainting fit. He came to long enough to tell his story. Then he got terribly nauseated and went off again."

Followers Say T. R. Will Be Nominated

—WITHOUT BOLTING

Chicago, June 17—Out of a chaos of claims and counterclaims, reports of a break to Roosevelt from the Taft ranks and a declaration by the Taft managers that Colonel Roosevelt's attempts to steal their delegates had met with failure, there came the frank statement by Roosevelt leaders that, regardless of what the final round-up of delegates may show, Colonel Roosevelt will leave Chicago a nominee for president.

There will be no bolt, they say, but if there is an attempt to make permanent the temporary roll reported by the national committee the Roosevelt delegates, believing they have a right to act as "representatives of the people," may take matters into their own hands, nominate Mr. Roosevelt in the Coliseum and claim for him the regularity of the Republican party.

"If an attempt is made to adopt the temporary roll made by the national committee, which denied practically all of our contests, the convention will never get beyond that," declared one of the Rosevelt leaders tonight.

Borah Discredits Bolt Talk.

"Personally, I don't believe there is any chance of a third party or a bolt," he said. "History shows conclusively that no successful party ever was born under such auspices. It would be created half-formed and would go into the fight with the likelihood of its parent weighing it down."

There were others among the Roseveit supporters who declared there would be no occasion for a rump convention" in the Coliseum. They based their claim upon reported desertions among the Taft delegates and the belief that the colonel would control the situation in the convention proper.

The Taft leaders, however, are equally confident that the president would be the regular nominee of his party and that their delegates would stick.

The Rosevelt men decided to demand a roll call on the first proposition that comes up. This undoubtedly will come on the right of Governor Johnson of California to cast the 26 votes of that state on the question of the temporary chairmanship.

This right will be questioned by the two Taft delegates from the Fourth District. Then will come the move which the Roosevelt leaders have planned. They will move at once that the temporary roll as made up by the national committee be rejected and that a substitute roll, prepared by the Roosevelt leaders, be adopted. This roll will include the 70 to 80 delegates which Colonel Roosevelt claims were stolen from him, and which would be sufficient to give the Roosevelt forces control of the convention.

Plan is Revolutionary.

Under the plan of procedure submitting the contests to the convention en bloc none of the delegates affected by the contests could vote. Under customary rules, passing upon the contests state by state, one contested state might pass upon the right of another.

The Roosevelt plan is a revolutionary one. It will be bitterly opposed by the Taft leaders, but will serve the purpose of bringing the fight quickly to the front and this is what the Roosevelt leaders desire.

Victor Rosewater, chairman of the national committee, will call the convention to order. It is not believed that he will entertain the motion to consider a second list of delegates but will insist upon waiting for the report of the committee on credentials, which ordinarily would not come up for consideration until Wednesday. If he does this the Roosevelt leaders will move at once "to proceed to the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt."

In other words the Rosevelt delegates in such a case would attempt to hold a convention of their own within the convention hall.

ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE IS BAD FAILURE

Jack McGrevey is resting easily at Keenan's hospital instead of being in the happy hunting grounds as he had intended Saturday evening, when about 6 o'clock he walked into the big lawn on the old Hay homestead near the Wheeling depot and hacked his throat with a razor because he had been drinking and missed his train to Conesville. He is a minder, aged 60, unmarried, and has been living on route R. F. D 2.

He cut the outer jugular vein and hacked the windpipe but did not cut it through. He will recover.

C. H. Waters, of the Central grocery, was the first man to reach McGrey's side. Waters told the story to an Age man who was soon on the scene.

"I was driving along in my wagon, just ready to take it to the barn," he said "when I saw a man standing under a tree in the old Hay yard. I noticed him because he was calling a little boy who was in the street. The lad was looking at him warily. The man sank to his knees and then I saw his entire front was covered with blood which was spurting from a wound in his neck.

"I saw what was up and that what he needed most was a doctor, so I drove up Sixth st. faster than the old nag had ever gone before and got the nearest physician, Dr. Lear, and drove him back to the man's side."

McGrevy was on his knees when an Age man reached him and a little circle of curious people crowding around him. The ground and the old fellow's collar, shirt and clothes were covered with blood, the coagulation of which however had stanched the flow. Directly in the front of his neck was a deep and red hole, where he had hacked with the razor; it was big enough to hide a hen's egg. How he escaped severing the windpipe or jugular is a mystery.

"What's the matter with you Jack?" asked The Age man.

"Oh I feel so badly," the man said in a tearful half maudlin voice.

"Well you certainly have made a mess of things; you must have had an awful grouch at yourself."

"That's just it, just it. What you ought to do would be to get a hammer and hit me over the head."

"Oh no, that wouldn't do. They'd miss you at home. Where do you live?"

"No place, mister, no place. I ain't got no home. I'm just like a rabbit I am, a-jumpin' from burrow to burrow, and calling any place home."

Just then Dr. Lear put a pad of medicated gauze on the wound and deftly tied a bandage around his neck.

"Never mind that Doc," whimpered the old man. "Just let me go and make a job of it. No need trying to patch me up."

"Here, brace up," said Officer Laird, who had come up. "You're drunk."

They started out of the yard for the ambulance some one said was coming. It wasn't there, so officer and "suicide" walked to Walnut street where they caught the wagon, the officer carrying the bloody razor in his pocket.

Nichols Kerch went to Beach City this morning on business.

S.S.S. CURES ECZEMA, ACNE, TETTER ETC.

While Eczema, Acne, Totter, Salt Rheum, etc., are troubles which affect the skin, their source is far deeper than the outside cuticle. These affections are caused by irritating humors, or uratic acid in the blood. Such impurities inflame and irritate the delicate net-work of fibrous tissue which lies just beneath the surface of the outer skin, and the inflammatory discharge thus produced is forced out through the pores and glands, and is continually keptup while the blood remains infected. This exudation causes the formation of scales and crusts so often seen in Eczema, and when they are scratched off the flesh is left raw and more susceptible to other infection. It can very readily be seen then that to produce a cure the circulation must be purified and cleansed. This S. S. S. will do. It goes down to the very bottom, removes all humors and impurities, neutralizes the excessive acids of the system and in this way removes the cause of disease. Local applications can only soothe the irritation and assist in keeping the skin clean; they never produce a cure because such treatment does not reach the blood. S. S. S. restores to the thin, acrid blood all its lost properties, makes it pure and rich and enables it to nourish the skin and keep it soft, smooth and healthy. WATER IS SHALLOW IN OHIO

The Lorena Got Stuck in Mid-Stream With Coshocton Seniors Aboard

The Seniors have left Pittsburg and are on their journey home again. The Age Monday morning received a letter from the class written just before they arrived in Pittsburg Friday night. The letter reads:

On Steamer Lorena
June 14, 1912

Editor Age: We have just left lock No. 6 and from now on to Pittsburg we will have slack water pools and will reach Pittsburg and not "bust", though for a day or two it looked as though we would not reach the Smoky City on the Ohio. At Wellsville we were stranded mid-stream over an hour and not until a foot of water was given us from lock No. 7 did we float clear. We have slowly wended our way over the thin water of many deceptive riffles.

We are now about to pass under the Rochester bridge, the largest on the river. It looms up in the distance through the murky atmosphere not at all untide the suspension bridge at New York. The hills on the right as we steam past Rochester are gloriously green and lofty. The scenic beauty and grandeur of the hills all along the Ohio is something we never can forget. The panorama will remain indelibly pictured in our memory forever. Mile after mile of shore scarcely reveals the presence of men, save the faint blue, curling smoke, locating a camp in some of the favorable spots. Today the appearance of miles and miles of the shore is much eyed since the days when the red man stole over the Ohio in his birch bark canoe or when Bouquet sailed over a portion of it near Marietta.

On account of the delays we will not reach Pittsburg before 9 o'clock tonight. The Seniors.

SOLUTION OF ISSUE LIES WHOLLY WITH NEGRO DELEGATES

Chicago, June 16—Sixty-eight colored delegates to the Republican national convention seem to have within their grasp to give or withhold as they see fit, the Republican nomination for the presidency.

Taft and Roosevelt forces, contending for control of the convention, tonight admit that the solution of the issue lies with the negroes. Nearly all of them have been credited to the Taft list. Roosevelt men are congratulating themselves on breaking through the Taft lines and winning over eight or ten, and they are hopeful of landing more tomorrow. Taft managers are apprehensive, but are on their guard.

The situation is without parallel. It is made more significant by the fact that the colored delegates who may decide the destiny of the party's big men come from states which won't cast a single electoral vote.

Sunday was a great Roosevelt day. By many, it was said, the often predicted break in the Taft lines had developed at last, and it was declared that tonight there would be such renewed evidences of desertion among southern delegates that the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt would become a certainty.

Chairman Dixon, George W. Perkins and others of the Roosevelt group were the happiest men seen in the convention crowds. However, no signs of panic were discernible about the Taft headquarters, and Director McKinley pooh-poohed Roosevelt claims as ridiculous.

Roosevelt's personally-conducted campaign of 28 hours was said early to have netted him 11 delegates, heretofore considered as Taft men. Director McKinley positively denied that more than three had deserted the Taft cause.

"Mr. Taft cannot be defeated," he said. "His supporters stand firm, notwithstanding the desperate efforts which have been made to tempt them to break their pledges.

"Mr. Roosevelt has been sending for delegates who are opposed to his nomination and has endeavored to persuade them to come to his standard. This work has been a failure, although claims have been made all day to the contrary."

The 11 delegates named by Roosevelt men as converts included five from Georgia, five from Mississippi, one from New York and three from Hawaii.

Colonel Roosevelt issues a bristling excoriation of the national committee. He declared the majority of the convention had brazenly stolen 70 or 80 delegates to whom President Taft "had not the slightest claim in law or morals."

FORMER MEMBERS OF ASSEMBLY INVITED TO COLUMBUS

It is likely that during the Ohio-Columbus centennial which will be held at Columbus during the latter part of August there will be a reunion of all former members of the Ohio General Assembly on one day of the centennial.

Secretary Lee M. Boda, of the centennial commission, is making the request throught the newspapers of the state that all members o r former members of the General Assembly send their names, the county they represented and the years of their service to him at room 500 Hartman building, Columbus, Ohio.

Simple Truth.

You can only do clean washing with clean soap. You know that cocoanut oil borax and naptha are natural cleansers and sterilizers and that they can't harm fabrics. Easy Task soap is the only one that combines these scientifically, and for that reason it cuts wash-day work in two and does the work better than it ever has been done. Ten cents to test it; money back quickly if it isn't what is claimed for it.

ENGINEER SAVES CARROL'S LIFE

Martin Carroll, formerly of this city, but now employed as fireman on the Big Four railroad with headquarters at Cincinnati, came near to being ground to death under the wheels of a large engine last week while making a run. He was shoveling coal into the fire box when the order came loose from the engine almost allowing Carroll to fall from the engine. The engineer applied the air brakes and caught his fireman before he could fall. The engineer fractured three ribs when he fell against the side of the engine in trying to rescue Carroll. Carroll was unhurt.

LOCAL MAN IN RAILROAD WRECK

William Lang, of this city, who travels for the Ohio Match Co., of Wadsworth, was in a railroad wreck in Illinois a few days ago. Luckily none of the passengers were injured beyond a slight shaking up.

The accident happened between Mt. Carmel and White Shoals, Ill. Some one bent on wrecking the train had chained a hand car to the rails. It happened that the engineer saw the obstruction on the track and was able to slow the train down a great deal before striking the car.
